Child Studies Collaborative - UCI

Site Number: 35	Placement Category: Child &amp; Family Services
	Faculty in the Schools of Education, Social Ecology, and Social Sciences share a database that allows faculty, staff, and students in all three units to coordinate recruitment and data collection with children and families. This is a common practice among top developmental research institutions and has many advantages to both research quality and efficiency. A shared resource increases efficiency and reduces costs to investigators, enabling 1) more high-quality research to be conducted, 2) more student-led projects, and 3) more pilot studies and studies with high-risk/high reward potential. The immediate purpose of the proposed research is to recruit individuals who are interested in participating in developmental research that is being conducted at UCI and to develop a participant database including the names of and contact information for those individuals. Parents who are interested in participating in research with their children provide their contact information and basic demographic information about their children, so that we can contact them when their children meet the enrollment criteria for the various studies being conducted by researchers taking part in this shared database. The specific studies include in their individual IRB that they will be recruiting participants through this database. The use of these recruitment efforts allow us to reach both a greater number of families as well as families of different demographics than we would have been able to contact otherwise and has the potential to benefit the affiliated units in the years to come. Learn more about this listing here.

Noga Klain and Associates, Inc

Site Number: 104	Placement Category: Clinical/Counseling
	"Noga Klain and Associates, Inc opened up to provide the communities of Los Angeles, Orange, and Ventura counties an alternative to the large, corporate approach to applied behavior analysis, sometimes colloquially referred to as in home behavior therapy. We believe in the core values of the Board of Behavior Analysts (BACB), outlined in their ethics codes. We begin and end with these ethics codes as our guides for practicing safely, morally, ethically, and legally. We strive to achieve the highest quality of behavior analytic services, maintaining client and provider dignity throughout the process. We care for the wellbeing and growth of each client family we work with. We work outside of typical hours, thinking outside the box, providing self funded materials and resources to ensure we provide the support and guidance the client family needs to be successful. Each professional on our team has their unique experiences, trainings outside the required BACB guidelines, and creativity that they bring to each case. We honor and highlight each professional's individuality to succeed with each family they work with. Each team of professionals requires its members to respect one another, respect the science of behavior analysis, and respect the ethics of the BACB while practicing behavior analysis with each client. Behavior analysts work with children, families, parents, pets, groups, and individuals. From eating behavior, social behavior

	(how to talk to someone of the opposite sex, how to interact with peers), weight loss, hygiene, morning and evening routines, for individuals with developmental delays and other disabilities preparing to live on their own, and much more! An individual does not need to have a diagnosis to seek a behavior analyst. Most common diagnoses that are referred to behavior therapy are individuals with autism, ADD, ADHD, down syndrome, intellectual disabilities, developmental delay, PDD-NOS. But any individual or family facing challenging behaviors can seek an initial assessment by a behavior analyst to find out what changes the behavior analyst recommends and the behavior plan that will be put in place. Learn more about this listing here.

JKL Teahouse / R is for Rice

Site Number: 324	Placement Category: Education (K-12)
	The demand for diverse children's books is on the rise. R is for Rice is an ABC's book for early readers that celebrates the influence of Asian Americans on everyday American life. Growing up as Asian Americans, we rarely, if ever, saw ourselves reflected in the children's books available to us. And the few books that were available often depicted Asian cultures and customs as distinctly separate from the mainstream American experience. At JKL Teahouse, we are proud of our multiple Asian heritages, and we are proud to be Americans. Our mission is to inspire a broader definition of "American" by offering products that reflect Asian Americans and the impact of Asian communities on American life. What better way to celebrate this than by exploring common Asian foods through a rhyming, colorful ABC's book! Learn more about this listing here.

The Craig School
--------------------------------

Site Number: 318	Placement Category: Education (K-12)
	TCS is a school program that is dedicated to helping children who struggle with attention, and whose behavior interferes with accessing academic curriculum in traditional school settings. We specialize in treating children with neuro-developmental disorders and provide support and education to their families. Our school program integrates a token economy system and a cognitive-behavioral social skills program with a special education approach to academics. Our target population is children in third through eighth grade. Through a clinical intervention program, children receive daily group cognitive-behavioral training directed by the highly trained staff. The program focuses on self-regulation, the management of anger, anxiety, frustration, and compliance, as well as social pragmatics, relational skills, and social reciprocity. During the classroom-based educational component, staff members implement a token economy system for about 16 to 18 students from third to eighth grades. Children attend group psychological intervention for 1 hour each day. This specially adapted school-based intervention model program developed at UC Irvine is theoretically based in cognitive-behavioral strategies and supported with applied behavior modification techniques. The Children's School Social Skills intervention model is specifically designed to meet the needs of children with behavioral challenges that are preventing them from accessing education and curriculum in a less restrictive setting. Learn more about this listing here.

Water UCI

Site Number: 418	Placement Category: Environmental, Planning, &amp; Policy
	Water UCI is an interdisciplinary center in the School of Social Ecology serving as a coordinating vehicle to facilitate seamless collaboration across schools, departments, and existing research centers around questions of fundamental and applied water science, technology, management, and policy. While our scholarly interests embrace global as well as national aspects of these issues, we will take as our point of departure the unique expertise afforded at UCI in those areas of water research that have a distinctively California focus, and for which we have unique strengths, comparative advantages, strong experience, and great proficiency. These issues include urban and agricultural water management, competition for increasingly scarce and over-taxed water supplies by diverse users, and the food-water-energy nexus – among others.

Water UCI builds on existing campus-wide strengths by affording a plan for responding to the many “grand challenges” facing water resources, and for which UCI is well-equipped. UCI will be better positioned to comprehensively address such challenges if we collaboratively leverage decision-maker support and practitioner expertise within Southern California. Finally, we envision this conjoint effort as a means of enhancing those segments of the campus already engaged in the investigation of water issues, and which, together with researchers in air, energy, climate change, biodiversity, and other environmentally-related areas, will also work with UCI’s Sustainability Initiative on matters related to sustainability education and outreach.

Maternal Mental Health NOW

Site Number: 606	Placement Category: Healthcare Services
	Maternal Mental Health NOW believes that the mental and emotional experience of welcoming a baby to the family impacts the entire family unit. We believe that addressing mental health during the perinatal (pre-conception to one year postpartum) period is as important as screening for gestational diabetes, and that a parent's emotional well-being can have as much of an impact on the infant's life as the nutrition that the baby receives in the womb. We work with healthcare providers, health systems, and state and local governments to make the prevention, screening, and treatment of perinatal anxiety and depression part of the standard of prenatal and postpartum care for every new parent in LA County, regardless of their circumstances. We center historically oppressed, marginalized, and under-resourced parents at the heart of our work, as they regularly experience the most significant challenges to receiving timely, informed, and culturally appropriate care. Learn more about this listing here.

UCI Campus Blood Donor Center

Site Number: 205.1	Placement Category: Healthcare Services
	The UCI Blood Donor Center on the Irvine campus exists to provide blood and platelet products for our patients at the UCI Medical Center. The UCI Medical Center is the only Level 1 Trauma Center in Orange County. We transfuse over 1000 units of blood to our patients every month. This requires over 1000 people donating blood every month. Blood is needed for cancer patients, traumas, transplants and premature babies. There is no substitute for blood and without our selfless donors we would not be able to meet the needs of our patients. Learn more about this listing here.

Immigration Court Watch Program - Weisz Immigration Law Group

Site Number: 900	Placement Category: Legal Services
	The Immigration Court Watch Program (ICWP) provides law students, paralegals, attorneys, and undergraduate students, and community volunteers with the opportunity to protect the due process rights of individuals currently in immigration proceedings by observing immigration court hearings and documenting any irregularities or abuses they observe. A similar program in New York collected data that was used to generate the National Lawyers Guild’s report, “Fundamental Fairness: A Report on the Due Process Crisis in New York City Immigration Courts.” Volunteers undergo a brief training (approximately 90 minutes in length), during which they are introduced to the basics of immigration court practice and procedure. They learn the difference between master calendar, individual merits, and bond hearings, as well detained and non-detained cases. They also learn to recognize disputes over the admission of evidence, record the demeanor and behavior of the parties, and document in detail their observations. Learn more about this listing here.
